With extensive experience in STEM education, Dr. Gehndyu mentors students to be creative problem solvers who have the ability to overcome challenges. When Dr. J is not devoting time to helping young adults succeed for the future, he loves spending time with his wife Jackie and their two young children, Ellie and Emmitt.

Lisa Lawler has been in banking for 15 years with the focus on business the last seven years. Before banking, she was in big box retail for 20+ years managing stores such as Target, Kohl's, and Kmart. She opened the first Super Target stores and helped to create Target's closing and relocating stores manual as well as their management onboarding procedures. While in Minnesota, Lisa belonged to many non-profit organizations where she taught financial literacy to underserved communities as well as an organization that helped battered women in shelter situations. She also mentored single-parent youth, helping them to write resumes, do mock interviews, and advising them in their job searches. One of her favorite organizations she volunteered with was "Dress for Success" which helps women who had been incarcerated get back in the work force. After moving to Florida in 2020, Lisa again wanted to give back by sharing her knowledge and even her personal journey. She is married with two children. Lisa and her husband enjoy boating and spend every Sunday on the water when she is not watching football (How 'bout them Chiefs!!).

Keith Pandeloglou Keith is dedicated to being a connector and ambassador for the local community. He has a focus on connecting with residents and the business community via his work as president & CEO of Lakewood Ranch Community Activities, a 501c not for profit dedicated to building community in the #1 ranked multi-generational master planned community in the USA. In addition, he serves his community as board member of the Lakewood Ranch Community Foundation, as well as his role as a board member and chair of the Community Engagement Committee for the Lakewood Ranch Business Alliance. Lastly, his passion for advancing the availability and viability of breakthrough mental health treatment options is recognized by his role on the board of directors for the Dr. Richard Schulman Foundation. His passion for young entrepreneurs led him to founding UTC Venture Group in 2015, an investment firm with a focus on companies entering the start-up stage. His professional career includes leadership roles in sales, client success, and information technology at companies including TriNet and CIGNA Healthcare. In 2014, Keith was part of the leadership team that helped with the IPO that brought TriNet to the NYSE. Keith was recognized in 2016 by Business Observer as a 40 Under 40, and by the Lakewood Ranch Business Alliance as Young Professional of the Year in 2017, for his work in the small business and not for profit community.
